PUBLIC SCHOOL EXERCISES.

Parents do not take sufficient interest in our public schools. More of them ought to visit the same occasionally. The exercises yesterday afternoon were very nice indeed, taken as a whole. The exercises opened with the song "Come away to the Hills," by the school. Then followed the recitation of a poem by Celia Graff...) This was rendered in a very good style though it would have been better appreciated had more of it been heard. Henrietta Russack read a composition, on "An incident of a week ago," in very good style. A recitation by Blanche Leonard, which we did not hear, so indistinct was it rendered. Alice Smith's composition on Peaglers and Agents" was very good; and expressed our sentiments exactly with regard to them. Mary Marsh recited a poem on the Blossoms of Ann almond tree." This was a very pretty poem, but would have been better had she given a little more expression to it. Clara Cossitt also recited in very good style. Josie Wintermantel recited a poem entitled "The monyless man," which was very well done. Archie Haydon a composition entitled "Something about snakes," which was very amusing; but we would advise him not to laugh so much next time, as it could not be heard so well. A song by Miss Fannie Elliot with Etta Lachman presiding at the organ, was very good. Miss Elliot has a very sweet voice. I. D. Cross had a composition prepared but left it home; because he did not think it good enough to read, whereupon Mr. Ring requested him to take his place. on the platform and answer a few questions, which he did, very reluctantly. Mary Taylor then recited the poem "A Smack in School in exceedingly good style. Miss. Tayfor has a very pleasant voice and speaks very distinctly. Lawrance Hasland read a composition. Clara McKinney read a very good essay on "Light." Tille Harwood read an essay entitled "Growing Old." Truly she said we are never satisfied with the present. When we are children we wish to become men and women, but when we have reached that age how few there are but would have years. The exercises closed with songs by the school, Collasion: A collision occured between the passenger trains of the Central Pacific and Virginia and can not be got along without. Hence, Truckee Railroads at Reno Thursday it necessarily follows, that in the night, which came very near proving a serious affair. It happened in this look to price but to quality, for none manner: The C. P. train was backing down on the V. & T. track to get the sleeping coach, when it col- or shoe. There is no doubt but that lided with the V. & T. train, which John Sunderland can give us comwas just backing up to leave the plete satisfaction in both respects. coach. The accident occured at Then to Sunderland's, (on Virginia about the end of the depot platform. The V. & T. train suffered the most damage, four platforms being mashed, though the sleeping car was not hurt-only the inmates being shaken up. The C. P. train was but slightly damaged. The accident detained the departure of the V. & T. train for Virginia until 5 o'cleck yesterday morning.

WANTS HIS LIBERTY.-We take the for Rono. following from the San Francisco Post of last Wednesday. Young Phillips, of whom it speaks, was formerly a telegraph operator at Wadsworth, and is also well known Musical headquarters. in Reno:

In the United States Circuit Court to-day Judge Sawyer granted an application for a writ of habeas corms in the case of Melville J. Phillips. who is held at Alcatraz Island by virtue of the finding and sentence of a court martial at Camp Abache, in the Territory of Arizona, November 5, 1873. He was convicted of desertion and theft, sentenced to be dis imprisoned for ten years. When he collisted he was only 17 years of age, and consequently claims that his enlistment was null and void, and therefore the continuatial had no rightful authority to sentence him to punishment for desertion and no rightful power or jarisdiction to try him for theft.

The case will come up before Judge Sawyer on Friday forenoon.
